SOVIETS PUSH WESTWARD TO EAST PRUSSIA

WEDGE IS DRIVEN DEEPER INTO OLD POLAND

BY RUSSELL C. LANDSTROM
London, Tuesday, July 18 (AP)—The Red army, in a smashing thrust aimed between the German fortresses of Bialystok and Brest Litovsk, announced last night it had reached the Vydomya crossroads 20 miles north of Brest Litovsk and the same distance east of the border of Hitler's government-general of conquered Poland.

The Bialystok-Brest Litovsk railway was a scant dozen miles west of the onrushing Russians, who posed an imminent threat of outflanking and subsequent encirclement of both bulwark cities.

Lithuanian Border Reached
In frontal drives along the east-west railroads leading to the two cities, the Russians reached within 33 miles of Bialystok with the capture of Vydomya-Berestovitsa, and were 58 miles east of Brest Litovsk in an advance from Pinsk, the Soviet midnight communiqué said.

On the northern part of the furiously active Baltic-White Russian front, Soviet forces reported seizure of Sebezh, a junction of the Moscow-Liga and Pskov-Poltavsk railways, and moved on eastward through broken Nazi lines and took Borisovsk, four miles east of the Latvian border. A companion drive from Drissa was reaching the Latvian border area on the southeast corner.

In the center of the front, where great Soviet flying wedges threatened to outflank the metropolis of Daugavpils and the old Lithuanian capital of Kaunas, the Russians refrained from giving specific locations.

Taste of Invasion
More than 410 towns and villages were captured in Monday's drives, said the broadcast communiqué recorded by the Soviet Monitor, while front-line fighter planes swooped over East Prussia in strafing attacks which gave that Junkers homeland a bitter foretaste of invasion.

Previously the Russians have been reported at the borders of the Suwalki district annexed to East Prussia in 1939 and within 40 to 45 miles of the original Reich's frontiers, but late Moscow dispatches said in some sectors the advance had gone much nearer.

Königsberg, chief East Prussian city, was about 140 miles distant as the Russians approached from several points, but the Germans appeared still unable to stem the advance or even upset the Soviet timetable. They brought up fresh divisions straight from Germany to make desperate last stands, but the Russians said these formations were being smashed down in the same manner as the Nazi armies they have been ripping apart since June 23.

Back To 1941 Basics
The Germans continued to tell of developing Red army attacks in the south of old Poland from the Luck and Tarnopol areas, but the Russians kept their silence concerning that sector.

As part of the big drive for truly German territory, the Red army, flying fast Yak-9 fighters from forward bases, added explosive bullets to the bombs the Russian air force has been heaping on East Prussian industrial centers. A dispatch from Pravda, Communist party paper, said the fighters, advancing from airborne to ground troops, had reached their original

Girl's Arm Chewed Off By Polar Bear In Night Zoo Visit

New York, July 17 (AP)—A 900-pound polar bear chewed the right arm of Miss Catherine Seales, 24-year-old daughter of a wealthy zinc manufacturer, early today when she and three companions capped a night club party by visiting the Central Park zoo.

Police said when the girl climbed over a three-foot guard rail and waved a handkerchief through the steel bars of the bear enclosure the beast grasped her arm and gnawed it from finger tips to elbow.

The arm later was amputated near the shoulder. Her condition was serious, but surgeons gave her a chance to live.

Miss Seales, who had been active as a volunteer ambulance driver, resided in a Park avenue apartment. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Malcolm Seales of Rahway, N. J., were called from their summer place at Lake Placid.

Police told this story: Miss Seales had visited the Stork club with socially prominent Corp. Edward Cheney of Manchester, Conn., on furlough from Camp Shelby, Miss.; William Chick of Boston, and Miss Gertrude Brady, daughter of New York city auctioneer Henry Brady. The party decided to "see the animals" and entered the park zoo at about 2 a. m., halting in front of the enclosure where two seven-year-old polar bears, "Soc," a male, and "Cony," a female, were sleeping.

Cheney waved his garrison cap through the bars and "Soc" made a swipe at it with his huge paw, knocking it from the soldier's hand. The men recovered the cap with a stick.

Then Miss Seales waved her handkerchief. "Soc" caught her hand with a claw, pressed her against a bar of the cage and gnashed at her. He released his grip on the screaming young woman only when her horrified companions pushed flaming newspapers into his snout.

TOKYO REVAMPS NAVY COMMAND

Grave War Situation Is Recognized In Shifts Of High Officials

New York, July 17 (AP)—The Japanese naval high command was reshuffled today "in view of the present grave war situation." Navy Minister Shigetaro Shimada was replaced by the relatively obscure Admiral Naokuni Nomura from the navy's heirarchy, but a Domei news agency broadcast said Admiral Shimada would retain his position of navy chief of staff.

Navy minister in Premier Tojo's war cabinet since before Pearl Harbor, Shimada also took over the chief of staff position in a shake-up last February after the first U. S. air raid on the Japanese sea fortress of Truk.

Nomura, trained in submarine as well as surface warfare, was named chief of staff of the combined Japanese fleet in 1935, but he was no more than a naval attaché in 1939. He joined the supreme war council last August and became a full admiral only last March.

Domei in an English-language broadcast recorded by the federal communications commission, said Nomura told newspapermen at his first press conference that "the Japanese navy has completed a structure with which to overcome the present war situation and press on to victory."

Child Prodigy Dies $15-a-Week Clerk

Boston, July 17 (AP)—William James Sidis, who as a child prodigy astonished Harvard professors with his original theories on the fourth dimension, died today, an obscure, unsuccessful clerk, whose last jobs included one at $15 a week—running an adding machine.

Sidis died of natural causes at 46, after burying himself for the past 25 years in a series of office clerk jobs, of which he asked only that he not be "required to think."

That was in direct contrast with his childhood. Guided by his psychologist father, Dr. Boris Sidis, he completed grammar school in six months—he finished three grades in his first morning at school—and won a college degree, Cum Laude, from Harvard when he was 16.

Sidis' father had written a book advising parents to begin teaching a child to think when he was a baby, and not "to fear overtaxing his mind."

RUSHTON WILL NOT RUN AGAIN

Attorney General Wants To Return To Escanaba When Term Ends

Lansing, July 17 (AP)—Attorney General Herbert J. Rushton today confirmed a long-current report that he would not seek another term, and endorsed the candidacy of John R. Dethmers of Holland, who announced tersely that he would seek the Republican nomination for that office.

Rushton, the first man since Alex J. Groesbeck to receive the office twice, told newsmen he had been away from his Escanaba home and legal practice "long enough" and planned to return to Escanaba when his term ends.

"I appreciate the honor of having served two terms as attorney general, but that should be long enough for any man," he said.

Tersely, Dethmers declared that he was a candidate and that he saw no reason for elaborating now upon that statement. He is chairman of the Republican state central committee.

Stimson Inspects Normandy War Area

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, July 17 (AP)—U. S. Secretary of War Stimson has visited the Normandy battle zone and, accompanied by Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley, inspected "the entire area under control of United States troops," it was announced tonight.

"He visited organizations and evacuation hospitals and made a tour of the beachheads," the announcement continued. "At Cherbourg Mr. Stimson thoroughly inspected the port and details of the rehabilitation of its facilities, now in full swing."

"Mr. Stimson's party included Maj. Gen. Norman T. Kirk, surgeon general of the U. S. Army, Maj. Gen. Alexander D. Scales, director of the war department's bureau of public relations, and Harvey H. Bundy, assistant to the secretary of war."

New Glass Cloth Developed For Use In Combat Planes

New York, July 17 (AP)—The United States Rubber company announced today it had developed a new glass, flameproof, synthetic rubber coated cloth for use in combat planes.

The company said one important use of the cloth was to protect personnel in Super Fortresses at high altitudes through elimination of possible duct breaks in metallic heating ducts caused by factors such as vibration.

These advantages of the cloth were claimed by the company—great tensile strength at abnormally high temperatures, lightness in weight, high tear resistance and resistance to fire, gasoline, grease, water, acids and alkalis.

BOOSTS GIVEN FOR WALLACE BY ROOSEVELT

DEMOCRATS LINING UP FOR BATTLE AT CHICAGO

BY DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
Chicago, July 17 (AP)—President Roosevelt let it be known tonight he would vote for renomination of Henry A. Wallace as vice-president if he were a delegate to the Democratic convention—but he left it up to the convention itself to make a choice.

In a letter made public by Senator Samuel Jackson of India, permanent convention chairman, Mr. Roosevelt said he did not wish to appear to be dictating to the party convalesce.

Wallace supporters at once hailed the declaration of presidential views as insuring renomination for him. But in opposition camps the emphasis was on Mr. Roosevelt's assertion that "obviously the convention must do the deciding."

Scrap Big News
The long-awaited letter was expected to bring into clearer focus the scrap that has been raging around the vice-presidential pickings—the one big issue of the convention.

Dated July 14 at Hyde Park, N. Y., the letter said:

THE WHITE HOUSE

My Dear Senator Jackson:

In the light of the probability that you will be chosen as permanent chairman of the convention, and because I know that many rumors accompany all conventions, I am wholly willing to give you my own personal thought in regard to the selection of a candidate for vice president. I do this at this time because I expect to be away from Washington for the next few days.

"The easiest way of putting it is this: I have been associated with Henry Wallace during his past four years as vice president, for eight years earlier while he was secretary of agriculture, and well before that I like him and I respect him, and he is my personal friend. For these reasons, I personally would vote for his renomination if I were a delegate to the convention."

"At the same time, I do not wish to appear in any way as dictating to the convention. Obviously the convention must do the deciding. And it should—and I am sure it will—give great consideration to the pros and cons of its choice."

"Very sincerely yours,

"(S) Franklin D. Roosevelt"

New stop-Wallace activity was expected immediately among the followers of both war mobilization James F. Byrnes and senate majority leader Barkley, classed by Wallace backers as the two men bearing closest watching.

Tojo Will Follow Hitler In Defeat Austrians Told

Canberra, Australia, July 17 (AP)—Predicting Japan would be as decisively beaten as the Nazis when Nippon is hit with full British and American land and air power, Australian Prime Minister John Curtin told parliament today that Britain's main efforts against the Rising Sun empire must await Germany's defeat.

The chief of the Commonwealth added, however, that large and powerful British forces would be thrown against Japan this year.

Big U.S. Battleships Pound Guam, Hint Invasion Imminent

BY EUGENE BURNS
U. S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, July 17. (AP)—The biggest battleships of Adm. Raymond A. Spruance's Marianas invasion fleet have added their mighty guns to the thunderous attack on Guam—a sustained operation extended through 13 days—Adm. Chester W. Nimitz disclosed tonight in a press release.

Tokyo radio has mentioned battleships among the attacking force in previous reports on the steady pulverizing of Guam's defenses but this was the first time the battleships were specified in the official Pearl Harbor accounts.

As the Japs know only too well, Spruance's fifth fleet, which helped make possible the invasion and conquest of Saipan, contains some of the navy's newest, heaviest and most powerful battleships.

(In the past, the battleships have moved in against islands to help level the sturdier types of enemy defenses just prior to the sending ashore of invasion forces. Guam, former U. S. outpost, offers as one of its greatest prizes in west coast port Apra, one of the finest harbors in the Pacific.)

"Gun emplacements and other defense installations on Guam Island were heavily shelled by battleships, cruisers and destroyers of the Pacific fleet on July 15 (West Longitude—U. S. Date)," said tonight's press release.

"Enemy shore batteries returned sporadic fire but did no damage to our surface ships."

This bombardment occurred on the same day that carrier planes struck Guam's bivouac areas with rockets and bombs, an attack reported yesterday in a press release.

Tonight's report carried the Guam attacks through the 13th straight day by saying that on July 16 carrier planes attacked anti-aircraft batteries, barracks and a radio station with incendiary bombs and rockets at a cost of one dive bomber.

The carrier planes also attacked an airfield, barracks and a bridge on Rota, an island between Guam and Saipan.

Guam and Rota have become perhaps the heaviest rocket-smashed islands in the world by virtue of these attacks.

The bombardment of Guam was the fifth such naval action this month.

SPURT IN ITALY SURPRISES AXIS

Eighth Army Units Cross Bridge Before Nazis Can Blow It Up

BY NOLAN NORGARD
Rome, July 17 (AP)—Allied forces bored steadily into German defenses across Italy today, British Eighth Army troops bursting across the Arno river northwest of the captured provincial capital of Arezzo at the center of the front and American troops driving within four miles of the heart of Livorno on the west coast.

The swift advance of Eighth army tanks and infantry beyond Arezzo, which they stormed early yesterday, so surprised the enemy that they were unable to destroy a bridge across the Arno. Engineers who had been assigned to blow up the span were seized by the speeding Allies.

The point where the crossing was effected is approximately 32 miles southeast of Florence and perhaps 20 miles south of the enemy's "Gothic line" defenses running from Florence to Rimini on the Adriatic Sea. Hard fighting was reported raging tonight around the bridgehead, just south of the village of Castiglione Fibocchi.

Numbers of German troops were believed to have been trapped south of the river by the Allied spurt, as the captured German engineers were waiting for the last of their own units to cross the Arno bridge before detonating the structure. They were surprised into immobility when British and South African tanks and infantry suddenly appeared.

Baby Badly Burned By Gas Drum Blast Set Off By Brother

Saginaw, Mich., July 17 (AP)—Evelyn Marie Brewster, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Brewster of Freeland, died in St. Mary's hospital here tonight from burns received this afternoon when an empty gasoline drum exploded near a sandbox in which she was playing.

Evelyn's brother, Kenneth, 7, told sheriff's officers he had opened the spigot on the gasoline drum and shoved a burning match inside. Kenneth then said he ran away. The explosion blew the drum across the yard over the head of his sister, and into the side of a chicken coop.

Mrs. Brewster told deputies she looked out of the window when the explosion occurred, and saw her daughter, whose hair and clothes were on fire. The explosion set fire to the grass, and the fire department was called to extinguish the flames.

I went back to the doorway and

'DEAD' SON AND FATHER UNITED

Two Former Wisconsin Professors Meet After 14 Years

Fort Lauderdale, Fla., July 17 (AP)—An 82-year-old father and his middle-aged son, missing 14 years and declared legally dead six years ago, were reunited on a railroad depot platform here tonight in an exchange of embraces and kisses.

Dr. John R. Commons, eminent University of Wisconsin educator who has lived in retirement here for ten years, recognized his only living offspring as the two walked toward each other alongside the train that brought the son from New York.

The father first waved a greeting, then quickened his step as he hastened to welcome his namesake, John A. Commons, himself a former member of the university's faculty. He was identified last Saturday by police at Hartford, Conn., where he had been working as a laundry truck driver.

"It's wonderful to be with you again, dad," said the younger Commons as he walked arm in arm with his father toward a waiting automobile.

The son, 53, told Dr. Commons that he was going back to Hartford after a reasonable visit here and take up his old job as a laundry truck driver.

Ammunition Depot Blows Up; Windows In Town Smashed

Martinez, Calif., July 17 (AP)—A terrific explosion rocked northern Contra Costa county tonight when a magazine at the navy's Port Chicago ammunition depot blew up, the sheriff's office reported.

The blast was felt in San Francisco, 35 miles away. The force of the blast blew out most of the plate glass windows of Martinez stores. Residents throughout the city reported windows blown in.

The naval depot is on Suisun Bay near the confluence of the Sacramento and San Joaquin Rivers.

Numerous ambulances were reported being rushed from various bay cities.

Behind The Lines Reich Defenses Hit By Bombers

London, July 17 (AP)—A newly-launched Allied air offensive against the Germans' "second line" of communications reached its peak today when some 2,000 American heavy bombers and fighters struck from Britain and Italy at bridges and other rail targets in a great arc around Paris and in southern France.

These blows came as the Russians in the east disclosed that their fighters had been attacking targets in East Prussia, thus making a three-way offensive against the Germans.

Parachutist Hurt In Jump At Adrian

Adrian, Mich., July 17 (AP)—Hopes strengthened today for the survival of Lt. Don C. Walker, who fell 3,500 feet from a plane with a partly opened parachute Sunday.

At Bixby hospital it was said that Lt. Walker's pulse had improved in the course of the day and that he had slept in apparent comfort.

Walker suffered spinal fractures and fractures of the heels in his fall while performing with the Civil Air Patrol in a war bond rally.

GREAT THRUST IN NORMANDY CRACKS ST. LO

ENEMY BAYONETED IN FOXHOLES BY AMERICANS

BY JAMES M. LONG
Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Tuesday, July 18 (AP)—St. Lo and Evreux cracked yesterday under the pressure of the greatest co-ordinated Allied drive since D-day and supreme headquarters announced further penetrations as fighting raged in the streets of both these strongholds of the enemy's Normandy line.

Americans driving to sever St. Lo's road westward to Periers over-ran Remilly-sur-Lozon and were less than a mile from the all-important highway, while their comrades smashed into St. Lo's ruins.

Rommel Recovers
Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, caught off balance again, recovered and threw five divisions into the battle in an attempt to check the British tide threatening to engulf Evreux.

While Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's doughboys were driving the enemy slowly from his stoutly defended positions in the lower Cherbourg peninsula, the general himself was escorting Secretary of War Stimson through all the French territory won by American arms.

Patrols probing the enemy defenses at the coastal anchor of Lesay were across the flooded basin of the Ay river, communicate No. 84 announced late last night.

As the clouds lifted at last, medium bombers struck a fuel dump at Rennes, fighters and fighter-bombers and strafed troops and rail facilities back of the front, while heavy bombers reached for the enemy's rail lifelines between Germany and Paris.

Moving like wraiths in the morning mist, the Americans, under orders to advance silently, bayoneted the enemy in his foxholes and swept into St. Lo from the east after seven days of assault.

The Germans, hidden in the rubble and tunneled under the ruins like Stalingrad in miniature, fought back fiercely, left 30 of their tanks wrecked in the wake of two counterattacks, and it appeared that the final reduction of St. Lo still was several days away.

American artillery, however, moved up in force and threatened to drive the enemy's guns back from the hills south of St. Lo, which have made the road junction a keystone in the enemy's lower Cherbourg peninsula defenses.

There also was bitter house-to-house fighting in the enemy's Orne river sector stronghold of Evreux, eight miles southwest of Caen, where Gen. Sir Bernard G. Montgomery was fighting for elbow room and a break-through

As soon as the presidential letter came out, Jake More, Iowa State Democratic chairman and a leader of the delegation from Wallace's home state, predicted: "Nomination on the second ballot."

"In my judgment," he said, "the letter is strong enough to swing the delegations that are strongly supporting the president over to Wallace."

A first ballot nomination is unlikely, he said, because there may be many votes for favorite sons. Senator Joseph Guffey of Pennsylvania, one of the leading Wallace advocates said he was encouraged by the letter adding: "We're perfectly satisfied with it. It is very favorable and should make the renomination of the vice president a certainty."

But the real effects of the letter on convention sentiment will become felt in conferences in hotel rooms during the night and tomorrow in which Wallace supporters will do their best to capitalize on Mr. Roosevelt's expression of liking and respect and the opposition will emphasize a free choice of the convention.

The convention, which begins Wednesday, is all set to hand Mr. Roosevelt a fourth term nomination—but not without some dissent.

Mississippi's delegation, which has 20 votes, decided today in a caucus to toss them all to Senator Harry Flood Byrd of Virginia, who frequently has taken issue with the administration.

And Florida agreed to abandon its unit voting rule to permit four of its eighteen votes to go to Byrd.

Buzz-Bombs Are Imperiling All In London, But British Face Danger With High Spirits

BY FRED S. FERGUSON
President, NEA Service

Here is a rough close-up of how civilians in London fare in this era of the flying bomb.

The British are living through this new-type blitz with chin up, but during six weeks recently spent in London and thereabouts I did not hear a single one of the scores of English men and women with whom I talked waste a breath speculating on when the war would end. And this struck me as certainly in marked contrast to the attitude of those folks here at home, who seem to spend much of their time arguing that the "Germans obviously can't take it, so the war is sure to end by—"

(pick your holiday.)

If you could stand on the receiving end of one of the German flying bombs you wouldn't think the Germans were cracking up and that the end of the war was just around the corner. And with the lifting of the censorship that prevailed for several weeks, it is now possible to give an outline of how the English people are living.

Narrow Escapes
First, for the period of the indiscriminate robot bombing, no man, woman or child in the London area can be regarded as safe, from death or injury, day or night, unless perhaps in an air-raid shelter.

There is no pattern to the bombing. There are many stories of persons who regarded themselves as having had a narrow escape because a bomb struck in some locality from which they had just departed. But there are just as many stories of persons who left one locality to go to another and arrived by taxi or bus just in time to be greeted by a flying bomb.

This means just one thing. The men and women who are carrying on the war work, the business, the government, the civilian life of the nation, as well as the military and industrial life—and this includes everybody—have no choice from a standpoint of safety in arranging their movements. Naturally they refuse to be driven permanently underground. Hence, apart from seeking private or public shelters at night, they go about their business and their various tasks on as nearly a normal schedule as possible.

These schedules are often disrupted. In any business or government office or industry these days, a tardy or an absent employee is a subject for concern. The boss and the employees on duty are not wondering whether the absent one may have overslept or is ill for a day. The speculation runs to whether he has been killed or injured overnight.

Your switchboard operator may arrive at the office hysterical after having spent the night in an air-raid shelter, with little sleep, only to have a bomb explode a short distance from her while enroute to her work. Or—and all of these are actual cases—a couple of employees may be working late at night and go home to find that a bomb has landed in the neighborhood while they were away and that their apartments are wrecked. Every window is out, the shattered glass covers everything and is even driven into the woodwork. Ceilings are down, doors dangle crazily on their hinges, plaster and dust have spread a white mantle. This scene of course, is multiplied many times over at the actual spot of the explosion.

Glass Is Deadly
There are, of course, dead as well as the living with whom this has to do, as Prime Minister Churchill has reported, and there are thousands of injured. Most of them are civilians, and apart from those so badly injured that they will probably die because they were on the actual scene of the explosion, most of the injuries are from flying glass. Repeated warnings have been issued by the government and published by the newspapers against the dangers of flying glass, and everyone is constantly cautioned to stay away from windows at all times. All windows are smashed over a considerable area when a bomb hits.

But the British spirit in the face of this latest bombing can be summed up in this incident. It took place in an office in a big building in a certain location in London which had been hit. There was not a pane of glass in the windows of the office in which I was sitting, or in that building or any other building nearby that I could see. Our business completed, the stout-hearted Britisher smiled and said: "And when you get home, remember bombs fall only on southern England, never on London."

Saved from wreckage of a home destroyed by robot bombs, a woman whispers to a rescue worker that others are still trapped in debris.

SOVIETS PUSH WESTWARD TO EAST PRUSSIA

western bases from which they were driven by the German invasion of June, 1941.

The Russians reported they had forced a new bridgehead across the Niemen below Grodno and were hastening westward behind a terrific artillery barrage.

Pravda described Grodno as "one of the most ancient Russian cities," which "has lived through the reign of Wilhelm's armies, the power of the Pan-Poles, and the black days of the Fascist (Nazi) regime."

This supported the consistent Russian adherence to the partition of Poland between Germany and Russia in September, 1939.

The sweep towards East Prussia was linked with vast encirclement programs in the Baltic states and with a central push towards Warsaw.

The Russians reported that the battles for five cities—Kaunas, Daukavpils (Dvinsk), Pskov, Bialystok and Brest Litovsk—were going extremely well, with the Germans caught in a squeeze that grew tighter by the hour.

German Prisoners March In Moscow

Moscow, July 17 (AP)—A German army of 57,600 men marched through Russia's capital today, not in the goose-stepping triumph of their leader's dreams, but with the slogging tramp of beaten, captured soldiers.

A million Muscovites stolidly watched this greatest procession in Moscow since the Red army daringly went ahead with its parade through Red Square Nov. 7, 1941, while this same enemy thundered at the city's gates.

The first elements marched 20 abreast, flanked by Russian cavalrymen with gleaming sabres. Among them were two generals, one arrogantly aloof and looking neither to left nor right.

SOLAR PLANT TO OPEN SOON

Superintendent Arrives,
Expect To Operate
Next Week

Operations at the new Solar Furniture company plant, First Avenue North, will begin some time next week, Jack Jacobson, president of the concern announced yesterday upon his arrival from Chicago.

Mr. Jacobson was accompanied here by Albert E. Hansen, who has served several years as superintendent of the Solar factory at Wolcott. Mr. Hansen will complete the installation of the machinery and will hire the labor needed to run the plant.

Installation of the electric wiring will be completed this week. A stock of dimension lumber is expected in a couple days, and with the completion of other minor details, all will be in readiness for the opening next week.

About 15 or 20 men and women will be used at the start. The Solar company manufactures coffee and end tables and other small furniture items.

All Stars Trounce Bark River 5 to 2

Gladstone. — Gladstone's All Stars finally gained revenge for three previous trimmings, when they defeated Bark River here on Sunday by a 5 to 2 score. Outside of a bad fourth inning in which Bark River committed two errors, the game was a close, hard fought battle all the way.

Bark River started the scoring by tallying a run in the first inning, when Derocher singled and advanced to second on a wild pitch. Demars hit a long single. Derocher scoring, but McIntyre settled down and retired the side.

Gladstone finally broke the ice in the fourth frame and by the time the inning had closed the locals had pushed across four runs. Arnsen started the ball rolling with a single, and Richards and Lundin got on base as the result of errors. M. McIntyre singled to score Arnsen, and Schness doubled with Richardi, Lundin and McIntyre crossing the plate.

Gladstone scored again in the sixth as a result of a double by McIntyre, followed by singles by LaPoint and Schness. Bark River tallied its final counter in the eighth on a walk to Larson, an error which enabled Derocher to reach first, and a double by Meyers on which Larson scored.

Score by innings:
Bark River — 100 000 100—2 6 4
Gladstone — 000 401 000—5 6 6
Batteries: Bark River, Derocher and Demars; Gladstone, McIntyre and Lundin.

Umpires: Houghton, Ames and Haland.
Time: 2 hours 15 minutes.

Even as the battle for the town thundered toward a climax, one British column swept past about a mile on the southeast, and other troops captured dominating high ground on the north.

Along the whole front the Allies were maintaining the pace of gains which supreme headquarters announced had liberated more than 53 towns and villages from July 6 to 12.

The weather took the first real turn for the better in days. Skies were clear over most of France, but fog and low clouds hung over part of the battle zone.

AHLSKOG TALKS TO KIWANIS

Lumbering Situation In Upper Peninsula Reviewed

Despite a shortage of labor and equipment, Upper Peninsula woods production during the past winter was quite satisfactory, largely because of unusually favorable weather conditions, Ralph Ahlskog of the Forest Service said yesterday in a talk at the meeting of the Kiwanis club. Ahlskog is Upper Peninsula director of the Timber Production War Project, launched about a year ago by WPB to assist the lumbering industry in solving their labor, equipment and other operating problems.

Lumber is now one of the few scarce war materials, and by Aug. 1 the War Production Board will be exercising rigid control over its distribution. The new restrictions will be explained at a meeting to be held in Escanaba within a couple weeks, Ahlskog announced.

The stock of logs at sawmills is being rapidly depleted, but resumption of summer operations in the woods will help to keep the plants going. Ahlskog pointed out, however, that summer operations are on a reduced scale because of the fact that farmers, who were engaged in woods work in winter, are now busily engaged in the production of food.

Much Used for Crating
About one-half of the wood is being used for the crating of war materials for shipment overseas, Ahlskog said. He also stated that much lumber is needed for the building of barracks, piers and bridges in foreign lands, and a large amount is being consumed by the shipbuilding industry. Lumber production is still lagging far behind military and civilian needs, he added.

The situation with regard to the production of other forest products is more favorable, the speaker continued. Pulpwood receipts the last four months were slightly better than last year's. However, some Wisconsin mills, dependent upon Upper Peninsula pulpwood producers, are running on small stockpiles and may not be able to operate this summer. Aggravating the problem is the reduction of pulpwood imports from Canada by about twenty per cent.

Container Veneer Scarce
Military demands for aircraft veneer and pulpwood, sharply reduced this year, are being met by the industry without any difficulty, Ahlskog said. There is a shortage of veneer for containers, and there has been some worry that Lower Michigan orchard growers would not be able to get enough crates to handle their large fruit crop. Ahlskog called attention to the fact that veneer boxes for berry pickers were hard to obtain this summer.

The chemical wood situation is generally good, according to Ahlskog, who pointed out there are only three hardwood distillation plants in the region. These plants are finding means of continuing their operations through a greater utilization of available wood. He said that the small mills are now selling slabs and edgings as chemical wood.

Ahlskog also described the "morale building" programs that are being carried on in the lumber camps to discourage absenteeism among woodsmen. War films are shown to emphasize the need for increased lumber production, and veteran soldiers of World War II are booked to give talks in the camps. Ahlskog said the programs have been effective in "bringing the war home to the lumberjacks."

Efforts made to obtain army trucks for use by the timber jobbers and other assistance given in relieving equipment shortages were described by Ahlskog.

Farley Works To Stop Fourth Term For FDR

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington—When James A. Farley moved into his suite at the Blackstone hotel in Chicago this weekend, he opened what to all intents and purposes will be formal headquarters of the Democratic anti-fourth term movement.

A shrewd politician, Big Jim knows he can't prevent the re-nomination of Roosevelt. But he can and will do everything in his power to keep FDR from being re-elected. There are many reasons for Farley's animosity. He believes that Roosevelt deceived him four years ago, first telling him he would not be a candidate and then later telling him he intended to run for a third term. In the interval, Jim's own hopes had soared. Bitten with the presidential bug, he has never entirely recovered.

stood peeking out at the tank. It started backing up. Then suddenly a yellow flame pierced the bottom of the tank and there was a crash of such intensity that I automatically blinked my eyes. The tank, hardly 50 feet from where I was standing had been hit by an enemy shell.

A second shot ripped the pavement at the side of the tank. There was smoke all around, but the tank didn't catch fire. In a moment the crew came boiling out of the turret.

Grim as it was, I almost had to laugh as they ran toward us. I have never seen men run so violently. They ran all over, with arms and heads going up and down and with marathon-race grimaces. They plunged into my doorway.

I spent the next excited hour with them. We chatted to another doorway and sat on boxes in the empty hallway. The floor and steps were thick with blood where a soldier had been treaded with in the hour.

What had happened to the tank was this: They had been firing away at a pillbox ahead when their 75 backfired, filling the tank with smoke and blinding them.

They decided to back up in order to get their bearings, but after backing a few yards the driver was so blinded that he stopped. Unfortunately he stopped exactly at the foot of a side street. More unfortunately there was another German pillbox up the side street. All the Germans had to do was take easy aim and let go at the sitting duck.

The first shot hit a tread, so the tank couldn't move. That was when the boys got out. I don't know why the Germans didn't fire at them as they poured out.

The escaped tankers naturally were excited, but they were as jubilant as June-bugs and ready for more. They had never been in combat before the invasion of Normandy, yet in three weeks their tank had been shot up three times. Each time it was repaired and put back in action. And it can be repaired again this time. The name of their tank, appropriately, is "Be Back Soon."

The main worry of these boys was the fact that they had left the engine running. We could hear it chugging away. It's bad for a tank motor to idle very long. But now they were afraid to go back and turn the motor off, for the tank was still right in line with the hidden German gun.

Also, they had come out wearing their leather crash helmets, their steel helmets were still inside the tank, and so were their rifles.

"We'll be a lot of good without helmets or rifles!" one of them said.

tration has never been disclosed. It has to do with the war of the colas which went on behind the scenes shortly after sugar rationing was started. Because it throws such a curious light on the relationship between business and politics, it is worth telling here.

Shortly after Farley left the Roosevelt cabinet and ended his duties as National chairman of the Democratic party, he became chairman of the board of the Coca Cola Export Co. Coca Cola's chief rival is the Pepsi-Cola company, of which Walter S. Mack, Jr. is president.

Sugar is an essential ingredient of both drinks and, with sugar rationing, the competitive position of the two companies would have been frozen for the duration. But Mack, who is an active Republican in New York state, argued that that would be a gross injustice to his company.

Moreover, he had an ingenious plan for getting around the sugar freeze. He succeeded in persuading the War Production Board to allow him to buy machinery in this country which he shipped to Monterrey, Mexico, where he established a plant for converting sugar into simple syrup.

Previously he had succeeded in buying up—at prices well above the ceiling established in this country by OPA—a considerable portion of Mexico's sugar supply. Converting it into syrup, Mack got nearly 50,000 tons across the border although the importation of sugar by manufacturers was forbidden.

Farley Got Nowhere

Coca Cola was greatly disturbed. They found it strange that their man, Farley, who had had such close connections in Washington, could do nothing about the situation. Loud complaint was made to OPA, but OPA said power to stop the traffic in syrup lay with the War Production Board and later with the War Food Administration.

Farley did all he could in Washington, but to no avail. He and other Coca Cola officials argued that either the importation of sugar syrup should be officially sanctioned or it should be stopped. At one point, big Jim flew to Peru and bought up nearly 90,000 tons of Peruvian sugar. From this source, even though it was more remote, Coca Cola prepared to counter Pepsi-Cola's move.

Not until Chester Bowles became head of OPA was the importation of syrup from Mexico stopped by official order. Deeply resentful, Farley felt a special favor had been granted his competitor. While he will not discuss it, he hints darkly of the forces that opposed him.

An accidental effect of the purchase of Mexican sugar was to throw Mexico's economy further out of kilter. It aggravated acute shortages existing there in the face of a surplus of purchasing power. Ironically, the Mexican government a little later came to Washington asking to buy sugar here at ceiling prices.

All reports to the state department indicate Farley is enjoying remarkable success as a salesman of Coca Cola in Latin America. He is actually beginning to change the drinking habits of our Latin neighbors. Today he is a business man rather than a politician and, like so many other business men, his principal desire in life is to get "that man" out of the White House.

Martin Kennelly, of Chicago, the tank commander; Sgt. L. Wortham, Leeds, Ala., driver; Pvt. Ralph Ogren, of Minneapolis, assistant driver; Corp. Albin Stoops, Marshalltown, Del., gunner, and Pvt. Charles Rains, of Kansas City, the loader.

Pvt. Rains was the oldest of the bunch, and the only married one. He used to work as a guard at the Sears, Roebuck plant in Kansas City.

"I was M. P. to 1500 women," he said with a grin, "and how I'd like to be back doing that!"

The other tankers all expressed loud approval of this sentiment.

Sgt. Paul Roman Shoots Down Zero Over Yap Island

Headquarters, 13th AAF, South West Pacific—Youthful members of a 13th AAF Liberator crew with less than half a dozen combat missions behind them recently shot down two zeroes in a 20-minute battle with 15 enemy fighter planes over Yap Island in the Central Pacific.

Credit for one kill went to Sergeant Paul C. Roman, 1615 North 16th Street, Escanaba, Michigan. Roman caught the enemy ship coming in from the rear and exploded its gas tanks at a range of 600 yards. The burning Jap plane dropped quickly into the sea.

Credit for the other Zero was shared by Corporal John J. Noe, 139 Catskill Avenue, Brentwood, Pennsylvania, and Corporal Claudio L. Orsi, 1202 South Seventy street, Omaha, Nebraska.

Orsi, the tall gunner, fired at long range as the fighter approached. Noe's guns in the waist of the bomber then took up the fight as the Zero passed under the formation. Apparently hit by both bursts, the Jap pilot went into a long shallow dive and his plane was observed falling into the ocean.

Picture Of Sister Gets Pilot Awake

Omaha, (AP)—Lt. Adrian Schultz, 26, injured while piloting a Liberator bomber in England last January, did not know who he was for more than four months. Shock and head injuries caused complete loss of memory and he learned to speak English again with a British accent.

His identity established through military records, Lt. Schultz was returned to this country in the hope that old associations would bring back his memory. One day he opened a letter and recognized the picture of his pretty little sister, Joan, 16 of Omaha. His memory began to return.

Because he spoke with a marked British accent, his family at first had difficulty understanding him.

CIRCUS PLAYS HERE TODAY

To Offer Performances Afternoon And Evening

A fire department that has never answered an alarm, yet travels several thousand miles a year, is a definite part of the Dailey Brothers three-ring circus, which will play two performances at 3 and 8 p. m. today at Ludington and Twenty-First street.

The Dailey Circus is the only circus in this country to own and exhibit ten baboons, the meanest of the ape family. The group were rescued from the Malaya war zone just prior to the fall of Singapore.

The Dailey horse show, features among other beautiful steeds, the famous show stallions, Black Diamond and Major, Miss Hazel King, the patient trainer of the collection of Pinto and palomino horses, is acknowledged to be the queen of all circus horsewomen. Her display alone is worth the admission price.

When the Dailey Circus exhibits here it will prove that all shows are not alike and that there is much that is new in circus world. As all circuses have more or less had an appeal for all classes of people the universal appeal of the Dailey Circus is unusually strong on account of the many improvements, the great variety of acts and stunts and the general high character of its entertainment.

Cows And Coolies Form Pack Trains

With the Chinese Forces on the Salween Front, (AP)—This is an army whose 20th century demands are being filled by 18th century transportation methods.

Pack trains of coolies, mules, horses—even cows—carry rifle and mortar ammunition, rice and salt to troops on this 130-mile front over some of the most rugged terrain in China.

It takes 30,000 large sacks of rice, for instance, to feed Chinese soldiers in this area each month. For trail purposes, these large sacks are broken down into 52 smaller bags. Each coolie carries two. More than 90,000 civilian coolies have volunteered their services. They are rotated as much as possible and spend their spare time cultivating Yuan's rice crop.

RUSSIA HOLDS THE WHIP

APPARENTLY the unpredictable and magnificent Russian military force will be the power that will deal the death blow to Germany and most of her Axis satellites. Apparently Allied military strategy, mapped months ago, calls for the application of a slowly advancing military force on all of the western battle fronts, while Russia smashes into Germany, itself, from the rear. Today's picture in the European war theater is the identical situation that Joseph Stalin has been calling for ever since Russia became an active partner of the Allied governments. Allied forces are pinning down German troops in France, Italy and parts of the Balkans while the most efficient fighting force ever organized by any nation is advancing toward the pre-war German border, relentlessly driving the Nazi hordes from Russian and Polish soil.

The end of the war may not be in sight, but the day of Germany's certain doom, is brought closer with every advance made by the Russian army.

And German militarists as well as the German people fear the Russians more than any other nation. They come by that fear legitimately. They know that a nation that has suffered as Russia suffered for long months, at the hands of the invading Nazi armies, will show no more mercy to the people of Germany than Hitler's forces displayed toward Russia and her people.

It is the well founded belief of military experts that when Russian troops begin marching over German soil, toward Berlin will come the real test of German morale. That happy day is fast approaching.

American and other Allied troops are writing brilliant military history on every battle front in which they are engaged, but it appears that it will be the Russian blow that will bring the final collapse of Nazism.

Home of the Junkers

OVER the weekend the Russian armies, advancing westward on their new offensive, captured Grodno, an important railroad and highway center controlling routes in central Poland and regarded as the gateway to East Prussia. Grodno is only 45 miles from the border of prewar East Prussia and 18 from the border of the Suwalki district which was annexed to East Prussia in 1929.

An extension of Prussia, long Germany's largest and most powerful state, East Prussia has been a stronghold of the Junker class of militaristic, landed aristocracy. This group, holders of the vast estates, clung to its feudal rights until legislation in the middle of the 19th century finally abolished serfdom. Since then, the Junkers have continued to be a force for reaction in the national life, although their power was somewhat curtailed by the German republic set up after the World War, and limited by Nazi encroachment later. So dominant is the militarism of Prussia—the nation that unified Germany and gave it the Hohenzollern emperors—that the very word has come to mean arrogance, ruthless discipline, and conquest.

Back of Adolf Hitler's rise to power in Europe are the military brains furnished by the old Prussian militarists. Without them the Nazi fuhrer would not have been able to organize an army more powerful than the one developed by Germany during the regime of the Kaiser. If Germany is to be eliminated as a constant menace to world peace after this war, the war-breeding germs of Junkerism, as well as Nazism, also must be destroyed.

Moving Back Into Fold

THE Democrats are saying that the primary election results do not mean anything, but nevertheless the Republicans should derive much encouragement from the votes cast by their party followers in Delta county last Tuesday.

The report of the board of canvassers showed a total of 2,240 votes cast by the Republicans as compared to 1,727 by the Democrats. The primary may be accepted as a fair test of party strength for there were some interest-provoking contests on both tickets. The Democrats, for instance, had a contest for the sheriff's and gubernatorial nominations, while the Republican contests involved the offices of lieutenant-governor, congressman, state senator and prosecutor.

Delta county left the Republican fold back in 1928 when Alfred E. Smith, running for the presidency on the Democratic ticket, edged out Herbert Hoover by a handful of votes. The New Dealers increased their strength in 1932 and the succeeding elections, but began to slip in 1940, although they have managed to hold all the county offices to date. Now, the Republicans are expressing confidence that they will take at least a portion of the county offices in November.

Germans Play Safe

PICTURES and stories from the Italian and Normandy battle fronts depict more frequently of late the surrender of German soldiers to the conquering Allied troops.

There is a story behind those surrenders that reveals the true nature of the enemy. The Nazis have been following the practice of shooting down as many Allied soldiers as they can from their pillboxes and other places offering them security. But just as soon as their positions are endangered, they come out with their white flags, hands uplifted and crying, "Kamerad."

This is admittedly smart fighting, but it is a strategy that does not appeal to the Americans' sense of courage and fair play. They natural inclination is to shoot down the snipers as they come out of their hiding places, instead of taking them prisoners and sending them to comfortable prison camps back here in America. In the face of such conditions, many of them would prefer to fight Japs.

TOMORROW'S JOBS FOR WOMEN

(Christian Science Monitor)

Women today are doing some serious postwar thinking—about jobs, for one thing. The demand for women in industry probably will not be as plentiful after the war is over. Men will again have preference.

That is why eight women's organizations, representing some 10,000,000 in membership, have banded together to sponsor a plank for both the Republican and Democratic national conventions asking for equal work opportunity for women and equal pay during the postwar period.

The women make this appeal not because they want to see women replace men in industry, but because they believe many women will be required to assume financial responsibility for their families after the war.

Public recognition of this prospective employment problem is certainly in order. Its solution may not be as clear-cut and simple as the proposed plank for the conventions makes it appear. But this presentation of the issue should furnish timely opportunity for the making of careful plans that will safeguard the employment rights of both men and women.

POINTS DON'T REACH

(Cleveland Plain Dealer)

The reasoning behind some of the rulings of the Office of Price Administration is difficult for the consumer to follow.

Take, for example, recent changes affecting the rationing of meat products. Almost without notice some weeks ago all meats except the choice cuts of beef were made point-free. At the same time the number of red points available for fats which were still rationed was cut in half. So far, so good.

Beginning July 1 the point value of rationed beef was increased while at the same time lamb was restored to the ration list. But the red point situation and the rate of red point validation was unchanged.

The results are perfectly natural and logical. There is in many areas more rationed meat than there are points to take it off the market. In the meantime the typical American housewife is having more than a little difficulty in making her points reach. In fact they don't.

World War In The Air

BY MAJOR A. P. de SEVERSKY

When asked by press representatives why we do not use robot aerial bombs against Germany, General Bennett E. Meyers, Chief of the Air Forces Materiel Command, replied in part:

"These are inaccurate weapons, in sharp contrast to our doctrine of precision bombing. If the occasion should arise, we would use them."

The general's answer seems to me correct and to the point, and in his official capacity he evidently went as far as he could go.

Actually the question might have been addressed more appropriately to the Chief of Ordnance, because the pilotless plane or flying bomb is nothing more than a long-range artillery. It differs from ordinary rockets in that it is jet propelled and has wings. Because of the wings it can travel at slower speeds than shells or wingless rockets, and can therefore carry more explosives over longer distances.

—NO SUBSTITUTE FOR PLANE—

The robot plane is more economical than artillery because it does not require expensive guns to discharge it. It is more mobile. Since it is a flying projectile and not hurled, it is based on aerodynamical principles. But despite these differences it is another type of ordnance, pure and simple. To my knowledge, in 1942 the Ordnance Department was advised of the urgent need for such weapons.

Those who imagine that the robot is a substitute for air power are deeply mistaken. They are as wrong as those who thought that the familiar water torpedo—which, in effect, is also a robot, since it is essentially a manless submarine—would replace sea power. The pilotless plane or flying bomb will be just another weapon, to be used by land, sea and air forces. The water torpedo has been employed by coastal artillery against ships, by ships against ships, by planes against ships. The aerial torpedo can and will be similarly employed, except that it will also be used by planes against planes.

The flying bomb, I am convinced, is destined to replace the water torpedo since it performs the same jobs with greater efficiency. Had we really developed these robot planes, as is claimed in some quarters, we would have found them tremendously useful on many occasions in the course of this war. Our aircraft carriers, for instance, could have been equipped with such flying bombs and thus would not have been dependent on the aid of battleships in overcoming Tarawa, Kwajalein and other strongholds.

The basic doctrine of air power is not affected one iota by the new weapon. Air power aims at the destruction of the enemy's means to wage war—his industrial set-up for war making. Our air forces are already firing rockets and without doubt they will be firing winged torpedoes in the future, as soon as ordnance provides the equipment. But the winged torpedo will no more replace air force than the water torpedo replaced naval force.

—INEFFECTIVE AT LONG RANGE—

Because London is so close to the enemy, it is, in effect, under siege by a new type of fire power. But at long range, the flying bomb can neither be as accurate nor decisive as the remarkable precision bombing done by our splendid air force. Attempts to obtain accuracy by electronic and other remote-control methods, as I have pointed out in previous dispatches, can be neutralized at the receiving end.

It is interesting to note that those who do not fully understand the technical problems involved are letting their imaginations run wild, forecasting extreme destructive powers. Others, whose pride is hurt by the fact that the Germans have beaten the world to the punch on this device, have begun to rummage in the archives for proof that Americans really invented the flying bomb first.

One such claim seeks to convince the gullible that our pilotless bomb of 1918 vintage, with its kitelike structure and 90 horsepower, water-cooled engine and small's pace of 100 miles per hour, was more efficient than the German robot. This is neither true nor necessary. An older generation may swallow this unthinkingly, but the air-minded youth of this country is too wise to accept nonsense. Besides, what difference does it make to-day who invented the gadget first. It is London that is being torpedoes, not Berlin.

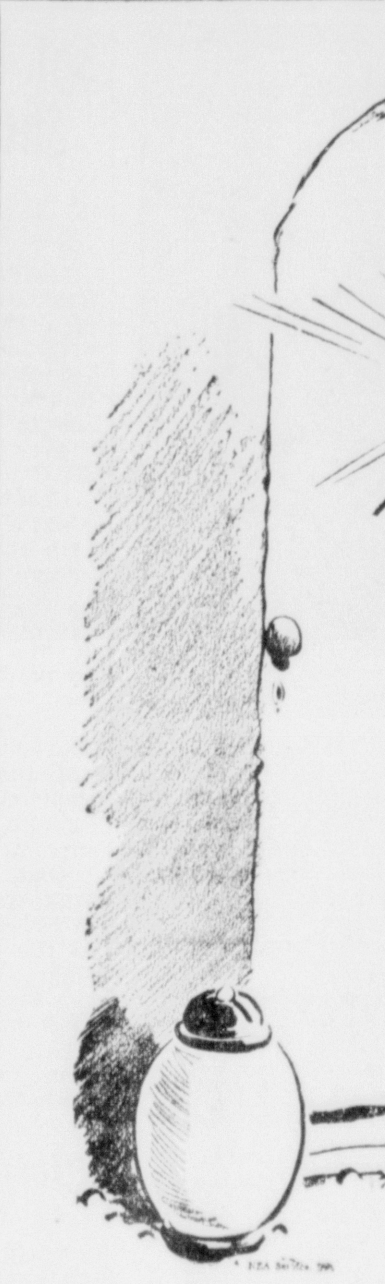

Why didn't our Ordnance develop these bombs? Only history will be able to answer that question. Our air forces, having only meagre resources at their disposal to build air power had to invest it in essential equipment. They had to build an air force in being.

The judgment of history, indeed, may be that because Germany squandered its dwindling resources on novelties such as the flying bomb, instead of bolstering its true air strength, it finally went down in defeat.

closes that there is real causet for optimism—only 134,999,996 Americans now use the mis-pronunciation "pro-grum." So, with the zeal of a true crusader, and with a heart beating high with hope, I so forward uttering the ringing cry: Du-h—I mean: Excelsior!

GO COATLESS—Dr. Victor G. Heiser of New York City, medical consultant to the National Association of Manufacturers, is urging short-sleeved, open-neck shirts and no neckties as summer office wear for men. He predicted they would be healthier if they would go to work minus coats and ties during July and August.

badge of distinction — and his mark of servitude.

Majority of the white collar workers would as much depart from this respectable, wickah health-destroying uniform, as they would be seen in a pair of dungarees and sweat shirt. Take off a white-collar man's coat and tie and what you left? Just a comfortable man, able to work more effectively, but seemingly lacking in dignity.

All hail the bank clerk in his cage. Counting cash in sweating rage. He dare not take his necktie off. For fear the customer will scoff.

Likewise with the office worker And the sad-eyed soda jerkier: Covered up so necks won't show You can bet they've got BO.

Accountant, lawyer, doctor, chief: None are seeking shirt relief By peeling shirts from off their backs. And stepping out in suits of slacks.

No, no! They keep bundled up. Wearing collars like a pup— Hatless, tieless they would be Lacking in staid dignity.

So they'll sweeter, grin and bear it. But all the while they'll wear it: Coats and shirts and ties and collars— They'll not be the guys that holers!

LOOK TO THE GALS—There has been a revolution in women's clothes (my, my) in the past 25 years. But the business suit seems forever destined to go on dehydrating our best manpower. While many joke about the clothing women wear the joke is really on the men. If you haven't already done so, take a look at women's clothing—even the dress-up kind. Materials are light and porous, sleeves are short — and skirts likewise.

Time was when shorts were considered beach wear or permissible only on the tennis court. Now they are worn downtown. Bare legs were once only seen at the beach or on the gym floor. Now they are worn bare anywhere and everywhere.

Dr. Heiser didn't say That the girls at work and play Should in summer Dispense with more Clothing when ashore.

In fact, so far as the report went, Dr. Heiser didn't mention girls at all. One wonders, however, what the opinion of women would be toward revolutionizing men's wearing apparel.

Would women shudder, glance aside, As along the street did stride A man in shorts; his skinny shanks Exposing knock-kneed pants?

Or would they applaud his Manly courage In defying a tradition that Only women's legs are fat?

Someday our men are going to kick over the traces in this matter of clothing, and when they do,

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

(Lt. Col. Robert S. Allen now on active service with the Army)

Chicago—Probably no delegate attending this quadrennial meeting of Democrats will take time to read them, but if they would brush the dust off the 1936 hearings of Hugo Black's Senate lobby-investigating committee, their eyes might bulge a bit regarding the origin of the current Texas-Southern revolt against Roosevelt.

These Senate hearings show pretty clearly that the recent convention led by Jesse Jones' nephew had its origin, not in Austin in 1944, but in the offices of Pierre du Pont, John Raskob, Alfred P. Sloan, Joe Pew and Will Clayton in 1936.

Actually, the Southern revolt began with the famous "grass roots" convention in Macon, Georgia, in 1936, called by the "Southern Committee to Uphold the Constitution" and supposed to represent businessmen and farmers of the South. Secretly, however, it was financed by millionaire Republicans in New York and Wilmington, Del., plus a few wealthy lumbermen and cotton brokers in Texas.

Lamar Fleming, head of the giant Texas cotton firm of Anderson, Clayton & Co., was one 1936 contributor. So, also, was his son. In 1944, Fleming was on the steering committee of the Texas convention which rebelled against Roosevelt. Another contributor to the Macon grass roots convention was Will Clayton himself. (He also gave $7,500 to the Liberty League organized by the du Ponts.)

After all these Texas contributions were in the bag, however, there still was not enough money to stage the grass roots convention on an impressive scale. So Vance Muse of Houston, sparkplug of the Southern Committee to Uphold the Constitution, went to Wilmington and collected $10,000 from Pierre du Pont and John Raskob.

With this, and various other amounts received from General Motors directors, they staged a jaw-baiting, Negro-baiting rally at Macon, featuring rabble-rousing speeches by Gerald L. K. Smith and Governor Gene Talmadge of Georgia, together with pictures placed on the chair of every delegate showing Mrs. Roosevelt entering Howard University, a Negro college, with two Negro professors.

The Macon grass roots gathering also promoted Jesse Jones for President.

—SENATE INVESTIGATION—

Vance Muse, who collected the du Pont-General Motors money in 1936, continued to be active and turned up at the Texas convention in 1944 as one of the backstage operators against Roosevelt.

Questioned by the Senate committee in 1936, Muse made it clear that the du Pont-General Motors crowd went in for the rabble-rousing at Macon with their eyes open. Here is part of the testimony:

Senator Black: "Did you go to see Mr. Raskob and talk to him and Mr. du Pont personally?"

Mr. Muse: "Yes, sir. I told them what I wanted the money for."

Senator Schwelbach: "After the meeting, you received $500 from Henry du Pont, did you not?"

Mr. Muse: "Yes, sir."

Sen. Schwelbach: "and $1,000 on Feb. 24 from Alfred P. Sloan of General Motors?"

Mr. Muse: "That was after the meeting?"

Sen. Schwelbach: "So it was apparent that the du Ponts, if they did not know of the distribution of that literature (picturing Mrs. Roosevelt with two Negroes), did not disapprove of it, because they contributed another $1500."

NOTE—As a result of contributions to the Committee to Uphold the Constitution, the du Ponts, General Motors and Will Clayton found they were contributing indirectly and without their knowledge to two anti-Semitic organizations now under indictment for sedition and on trial for stirring up armed revolt against the United States. Some of the money of the Committee to Uphold the Constitution was passed on to James True and Robert E. Edmundson, both now on trial for sedition.

—BORING FROM WITHIN—

The story of how big business camouflaged its attack on Roosevelt through committees with patriotic, high-sounding names, is too long to be told here. But during 1935-36, the du Pont family alone, with its associates, contributed $356,667 to such organizations as the American Taxpayers' League, Minute Men, Crusaders, National Economy League, Sentinels of the Republic, Farmers' Independent Council, Liberty League, and various others.

Pennsylvania's GOP boss, Joe Pew, of the Sun Oil Company, also contributed $37,260 to many of these organizations during the same period; and it is significant that two vigorous leaders of the anti-Roosevelt revolt at the Texas convention in 1944 are paid minions of Republican Joe Pew—John P. Morgan, chief lobbyist for Sun Oil, and George Heyer of Crude Oil, a Sun subsidiary.

The camouflaged big-business drive against Roosevelt got scared even further underground by the Senate investigation of 1936, but it never deserted the theory that the best way to lick FDR was by boring from within through the Democratic party.

How much this had to do with the lush Coca Cola salary offered to Jim Farley is his secret. However, it remains a fact that A. B. Freeman, head of the Coca Cola Bottling Company, with offices in both New Orleans and Chicago, is one of the most rabid Roosevelt haters in the country, and is Louisiana chairman of the Byrd-for-President Committee.

Delta Democrats Favor Fourth Term For President

Delta county Democrats in county convention here yesterday at the court house adopted a resolution in which they "briefly but most profoundly" expressed their support for President Roosevelt for reelection for a fourth term.

The county convention was held to name delegates and alternates to the state Democratic convention to be held at Grand Rapids July 23, and to organize the county Democratic committee for the ensuing year.

Delegates elected to attend the state convention were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gorman of Gladstone; Mrs. Violet Patterson of Perkins; Mr. and Mrs. William Miron of Escanaba; Gerald Cleary of Escanaba; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Louis of Gladstone; and Mrs. Irene Gallagher of Escanaba.

Alternates are Theodore Ohlen, Gladstone; Ralph R. Olsen of Escanaba; Ernest Carlson of Perkins; Robert Pryal and Marshall Perrin of Escanaba; James Dotch of Garden; J. H. Boyle of Bark River, and Walter Mantle of Rock.

In organization of the county committee for the ensuing year Gerald Cleary was reelected chairman; Peter N. Logan of Escanaba, August Olsson of Gladstone, Harry Greene of Garden and Oscar Nelmi of Rock, vice chairmen; Peter LeChaire of Gladstone, secretary; and J. H. Boyle of Bark River, treasurer.

Plan Campaign
The Democrats are planning an aggressive fall campaign in which speakers will be invited to attend rallies, and meetings will be held in each township. On the campaign committee are Ralph R. Olsen, William Miron, Theodore Ohlen, R. C. Pryal and C. P. Titus.

Following is the resolution adopted by the convention:
WHEREAS, America being at war, with her Armies and Navy scattered throughout the world on the far-flung battle lines, this is no time for unduly disturbing the home front over election matters;

AND WHEREAS, it is for the best interests of the American people and its Democratic form of government that the present elections should proceed this year in an orderly manner and in a spirit of forbearance consistent with the efforts of our armed forces to maintain democracy;

THEREFORE BE IT AND IT IS HEREBY RESOLVED BY this convention of the Democratic Party in Delta County, that we briefly but most profoundly express our support for President Roosevelt or reelection, and for the candidates of our party for Congress, the State Legislature, the State offices, and the county candidates.

We pledge our every effort in this campaign to elect these candidates for office, including however the National Convention may choose as the candidate or Vice President.

We especially implore the voters of Delta County to show their appreciation for the right to vote and to elect officers of government, and therefore to be, in fact, the government themselves, by making certain that no obstacle shall stand in their way to vote on Election Day. The voters of America in the coming November election must cut the pattern of the peace we are to enjoy when this war is ended, and likewise the place the United States is to have in the world of tomorrow. The people will do this by choosing the men in National and State Government whose task it will be to cut the cloth to fit the pattern. It will be your pattern, voters of America, as you make your choice of the men who must do the work. You must decide what candidates have the experience and the ability to do the job best for all the people of America.

Let these guys start it!

There's a day coming when the enemy will be licked, beaten, whipped to a fare-thee-well—every last vestige of fight knocked out of him.

And there's a day coming when every mother's son of us will want to stand up and yell, to cheer ourselves hoarse over the greatest victory in history.

But let's not start the cheering yet.

In fact, let's not start it at all—over here. Let's leave it to the fellows who are doing the job—the only fellows who will know when it's done—to begin the celebrating.

Our leaders have told us over and over again that the smashing of the Axis will be a slow job, a dangerous job, a bloody job.

And they've told us what our own common sense confirms: that if we at home start throwing our hats in the air and easing up before the job's completely done, it will be slower, more dangerous, bloodier.

Right now, it's still up to us to buy War Bonds—and to keep on buying War Bonds.

Let's do that. Let's keep bearing down till we get the news of final victory from the only place such news can come: the battle-line.

If we do that, we'll have the right to join the cheering when the time comes.

Worry Clinic

With Case Records Of
A Psychologist

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE V-108: I recently recommended constant use of the rivalry motive as a means of pepping up attendance at Sunday School.

But Miss Sarah, the superintendent, also asked for advice on how to maintain the interest of the pupils in their Sunday school lesson, which is obviously the primary purpose of the religious meeting.

When a class of boys and girls retires to its individual classroom, the attention should be focused on religious educational topics.

That is not the time or place for animated discussion of such irrelevant topics as the main Sunday school contest, or the class baseball or basketball tournament, or gossip about dates and movies.

Lesson time should be devoted to a study of the LESSON. I have seen many teachers who seemed to feel satisfied if they could keep the class interested in discussion, regardless of what was being talked about.

Making Lessons Interesting
It is entirely possible, however, to employ that same rivalry motive in the presentation of the facts or morals inherent in the days' lesson.

"What Biblical character lost his sight on the road to Damascus?" the teacher may inquire.

If the pupils have been brought up in an irreligious home or have not studied their lesson, they can't even guess at the answer. So there is no opportunity for real rivalry, since competition involves trying to win.

Such a child cannot try, so he is disinterested. To hide his ignorance, he may affect boredom or torment some of his classmates.

One of the secrets of successful teaching involves giving every child an opportunity to try. How can this be accomplished?

By employing the objective type of examination! For 25 years we have been using this form of quiz in our university psychology depts.

Now the other departments employ it, including our medical schools.

Any successful educational method of the public schools should immediately be carried over to the Sunday school. There is no justification for the church school to lag behind public education, though it is notorious for such inefficiency.

Use Objective Examinations
The favorite type of objective quiz is called the "multiple choice," wherein the correct answer is listed among several that are wrong. For example:

"The man who lost his sight on the road to Damascus was SOLOMON, JONAH, SAUL, JUDAS."

By such a type of quiz, we have injected competition, for even the dullard can make a try at the answer. At least, he can attempt to beat the law of chance, so he more eagerly takes part.

And having underlined one of the four answers above, his interest is maintained until the final check-up, for he wants to know whether he guessed correctly.

The widespread popular interest in Quiz Columns in newspapers and magazines, as well as the numerous radio quiz programs, show that people are basically hungry for knowledge if it can be presented to them in an attractive wrapper.

A Sunday school teacher or her pupils certainly can gain access to a typewriter during the week, and type off enough copies of such an objective quiz to meet the needs of the class.

If you wish to keep your church in the van of educational progress, send for my bulletin entitled "The Psychology of Religious Education," enclosing dime and a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope and a dime to cover typing or printing costs when you seek personal advice or one of his psychological charts.)

Retail Wrapping
Supplies Falling
Far Below Needs

BY ANNE STEVICK

NEA Staff Correspondent

Washington.—Tall talk about short paper has so far failed to come true, but War Production Board paper boys predict that the normal fall shopping spree, plus Christmas shopping, will bring it home to you.

Retail wrapping supplies are running 50 per cent under 1942. Your department and grocery stores are expected to be so short that nothing portable without paper will be wrapped. Some stores plan a stamp system to mark unwrapped packages and foil shoplifters. Brown paper bags will be so precious that it is planned to mark them "Handle with care. You can use it again."

Boxes for ice-cream are already so short some dealers ask you to bring your own containers. Heavy shopping bags will be few and far between. You're advised to be ready for fall shopping with a homemade shopping bag made out of a remnant from a chintz drape, ticking, or a discarded tweed shirt.

No formal order is planned to regulate retail wrappings, but WPB has given suggestions to retail stores on cutting down wrapping and use of paper and paper.

board in displays. With 3,500,000 fewer cords of pulpwood cut this year, and 33 per cent more paper needed than in 1943, strict conservation plus more salvage is the only answer — about 2,000,000 pounds more is the estimate. Fall will bring intensive campaigns to gather up waste paper through Boy Scout and American Legion groups.

Major Loop Talent Trickles Back From Army, Farms And Factories

AMERICAN RACE WIDE OPEN YET

Detroit Flag Hopes Are Sparked By Return Of Wakefield

BY JACK HAND
New York, July 17 (AP)—War plants, farms and the services are returning to baseball such stand-out major leaguers as Frank Crosetti of the Yankees, Lou Finney of the Red Sox, Harland Clift of the Tigers who today hold the balance of power in the tight American league pennant chase.

As the majors enjoyed a fourth successive Monday open date before resuming inter-sectional competition tomorrow, the American race was still wide open with St. Louis, New York and Boston in the front row but none of the others outdistanced.

Luke Sewell's Browns, with only 22 more road dates, and a two-game lead held the advantage of finishing at home as the schedule sends all eastern teams into the west in the final two weeks of the season. The Browns and Yanks, who might be fighting it out, wind up the campaign in St. Louis, Oct. 1.

Although Chet Laabs and Mike Chartak rejoined the club, the Browns continued to bank on the lineup that kept them on top most of the season. Crosetti, just released from a San Francisco ship yard, was expected to take his place in the New York infield as soon as he tells Joe McCarthy he's ready, but whether he'll replace Mike Milosevich at short or play third was still undecided. Outfielder Herschel Martin had given the team a big lift since he was acquired from Milwaukee.

Boston's pitching troubles still held back the club despite its hitting power. Joe Cronin picked up Red Barrett, a capable relief man from Columbus, but still leaned heavily on Tex Hughson. Lou Finney gave the Sox even more power at the plate when he took over first base after his crops had been harvested at his Alabama farm.

Clift returned to Washington just in time. Three of the four remaining Cubans, including third baseman Gil Torres, turned in their uniforms and headed for home, but Oreste Bluez had Clift to take over the hot corner. Although the veteran reported only a week ago and had been bothered by a sore shoulder he was able to step out of retirement into the lineup. Outfielder Joe Vosmik was lured back to the Nats from Minneapolis and Catcher Al Evans was discharged from the Navy.

When the Iowa Pro-Flight school "detached" Wakefield, the slugger joined Detroit immediately and started to wear out the opposing pitchers. Although he may not be available for long, the $52,000 dandy has sparked the Tigers' flag hopes.

War plants yielded Roy Mack and Buddy Rosar to Cleveland on a part-time basis, and Connie Mack dug into the minors to replace Athletic weak spots. Bill McGhee, purchased from Little Rock, hit so hard subbing at first base for Dick Siebert that the veteran went to the outfield when he returned. Joe Burns from Indianapolis took over the second base job and Larry Rosenthal, acquired from the Yanks by way of Newark, went to the outfield.

Jump The Shot Is Favorite Game

Jump the Shot replaced Circle Stride as the favorite game at the Webster playground during play last week. Sonny Oesen won two games while the following were winners of one game: Tom Schwalbach, Jim McCarthy, Jim Nyquist, and Betty Lou Massard.

The following boys and girls scored heavily in Jump the Shot and its variations: Barney Mayette, 62; Gail Boucher, 45; Ken Mayenich, 44; Orville Randall, 42; Sonny Dagenals, 41; Billy Mayenich, 39; Jim Katirinski, 37; Mary Jensen, 35; Theresa Laughner, 35; Donald Harrison, 30; Francis Artley, 30; Dolly Perryman, 21; Billy Ranguette, 20; and Ken Brandt, 16.

Bean Bag victors were Gerald Nelson, Francis Artley, Tom Schwalbach, Glenn Ruden, John Cousineau, Duane Benard, Ronald Noel, Donald Harrison, Billy Courteney, Billy Bolm, Wayne Courler, Mary Ann Smokovitch, Jean Smokovitch, Mike Greis, Gladys Nelson, Theresa Ruden, Tom Courier, Charles Perryman, Curtis Trams, and Wallace Thompson.

Clift returned to Washington just in time. Three of the four remaining Cubans, including third

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderman

Can baseball be established in upper Michigan high schools as a major spring sport? If so, can it be established only at the expense of the track program which the upper peninsula high schools now promote? I asked these questions the other day of Harold Cass, EHS graduate now directing athletics at Romulus high school, near Detroit. Cass answered both questions by explaining that Romulus, a Class C high school, produces both baseball and track teams, using virtually the same athletic talent for both sports.

Athletic directors in the Upper Peninsula have shied away from baseball promotion, contending the spring season north of the straits is too late for adequate development of the sport before the school term ends in June. Undoubtedly this is the only sound argument against the establishment of baseball in upper peninsula schools. Romulus plays a 16 game baseball schedule, Cass reported. It is obvious that a season of this length would be virtually impossible in the upper peninsula, but a schedule of eight to 10 games, played on a twice a week basis, would be possible.

This brings up the problem of training, certainly a complex one if both baseball and track are promoted at the same time and with virtually the same talent. It is quite apparent that this problem can be met only if the coach of baseball is also the track coach. Two coaches handling the same athletes at the same period of time would probably be tearing each other's throats after the third week of the season. The emphasis during the training season, of course, would have to be on track, rather than baseball, although the track conditioning program would be valuable to the baseball team.

Eventually upper peninsula high schools are going to be faced with the problem of establishing baseball in their interscholastic program, regardless of their present attitude. Baseball is due for a great resurgence of popularity in the postwar period and the demand will be for the development of the sport in high schools. If the schools find that they cannot sponsor both track and baseball, it will be the track program that will have the least enthusiastic support—from athletes and fans alike. Even now interest in track is on the downgrade, and anyone who doubts it needs only to recall the handful of spectators at the recent Upper Peninsula Relays.

If a choice of baseball or track were left to the athletes, the decision would be lopsided in favor of baseball. I'd bet my shirt on that, even though baseball has received very little promotion in Escanaba in recent years and most of the high school lads have had only a meager opportunity to acquaint themselves with the thrills of the game. They'd favor baseball for many reasons, not the least of which is the fact that they could continue participation in the sport for the summer months that follow the end of the high school term in mid-June. I have yet to hear of a group of high school lads continuing their participation in track after school closed.

BASEBALL LOOP IS ORGANIZED

Play In 4-Team County League To Start Sunday

Organization of a Delta county baseball league is being completed this week with play scheduled to start this Sunday, according to a statement by Alvin Ness, local junior hardball director, who has been active in promotion of the new league. Members of the league will be Escanaba, Garden, Bark River and Gladstone.

Escanaba's entry will consist primarily of an all star team from the regular junior league, although tryouts will be granted to any young players who may be above the league age but are interested in the game.

Team managers or representatives who are Cliff Frasher, Gladstone city recreational director, "Dude" Ranguette of Garden, and P. A. Derocher of Bark River, local Lion manager of the team, have assured Ness that they will participate and have authorized him to go ahead with final plans.

Bever Butts, city recreational director, has agreed to serve as acting secretary until such time as permanent officers shall have been selected and is sending each manager a copy of suggested league rules along with a tentative schedule for the season of six weeks.

In addition to the Delta county league, Escanaba junior hardball players will have the opportunity of participating in an intercity league with Gladstone with each team scheduled to play twice a week if plans made by Ness and Frasher get underway. Chances to participate to a greater extent than ever before is expected to increase interest in hardball in Escanaba.

Blues Beat Reds At Webster Park

The Blues defeated the Reds in a low-organized game contest held at the Webster playground last week. In the feature game the Blues came from behind to win by a 26 to 23 score.

Members of the winning team were Darline Gartland (Captain) Barbara Barthume, Rosemary Massard, Betty Lou Massard, Patsy Barthume, Annette Paquette, Shirley Beauchamp, Theresa Laughner and Dolly Perryman. The captain of the Blues was Margaret Lyaugh and the members of her team were John Lyaugh, Donna Courier, Mary Ann Smokovitch, Verna Paquette, Wayne Courier, Harry Courier, Barbara Courier, Ken Brandt, and Tim Lyaugh.

NEW BASEBALL LEAGUE FORMED

Includes 3 Teams From Gladstone, Escanaba Circuits

Formation of a new baseball league to be known as the Twin City Twilight League, was announced yesterday by recreation director Cliff Frasher of Gladstone. The new circuit will consist of six teams, three of them from each city, which were members of the city loops conducted by Frasher and Al Ness.

The opening league tilt will be played tonight and the schedule for the balance of the season calls for games on Tuesday and Thursday nights of each week. Team managers will be required to notify either Frasher or Ness if their team cannot play at the diamond to which they have been assigned by the schedule.

League rules provide that players cannot be added to line-ups unless a member has left the city to reside elsewhere or enters the armed service. Names of new players must be sent to either of the city baseball directors no later than three days before the first game in which they expect to participate. Games will start at 6:30 p. m. and all protests will be handled by a board which will be announced at a later date.

SELLING SLICES MARKET PRICES

New York, July 17 (AP)—Steel and motors today led the stock market on one of the most substantial retreats of the past three months or so.
Many highs for the year or longer were in evidence at the start but selling in volume soon appeared and, after mid-day, losses rained from fractions to around 2 points in virtually all departments.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was down 3.8 points at 3,894.3, equaling a similar fall April 24. The market was broad with 970 issues appearing. Of these 714 went down, 126 up and 139 unchanged. Transfers totaled 1,482,440 shares compared with 1,087,610 Friday.

Conspicuous casualties were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Pepsi-Cola, Deere, Douglas Aircraft, Westinghouse, American Can, Western Union, and Allied Chemical. At tops for 1944 at the finish were Pere Marquette common and preferreds, Nickel Plate common and preferreds.

BOND TREND UNSETTLED
New York, July 17 (AP)—Declines of fractions to a point or so in a sizable number of rails had an unsettling effect on the bond market today, although the market was good support for favored issues in the higher price divisions.

The market moved along quietly on a fairly even level until about 1:30 p. m. when there was a sudden increase in supply of bonds of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific, Missouri Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio, North Western, Rio Grande Western, Southern Pacific, New York Central, Seaboard and St. Louis-San Francisco.

While scale down buying softened the drop, a number ended behind minus marks. Little activity in the foreign bond market changed on the day after having been a little higher at one time.

Little activity in the foreign bond market was a large number of investment rated corporates and miscellaneous issues. Among them were Consumers Power $3 1/2s, 100 1/2; Great Northern $4 1/2s at 108 1/2; Illinois Bell Telephone 2 3/4s at 103; Lorillard 3s at 103 7/8 and National Distillers 4 1/2s at 104 1/2. U. S. governments were fully active.

Australia 5s, Brazil 8s and Buenos Aires 4 1/2s were among foreign dollar bonds showing movement. Sales of $8,153,500 compared with $12,043,800 last Friday.

CHICAGO BUTTER

Chicago, July 17 (AP)—(WFA)—The butter market was firm today and unchanged at OPA ceilings.

CHICAGO EGGS
Chicago, July 17 (AP)—(WFA)—Large eggs were easy, large specials, 39 to 39 1/2; large extras, 27 1/2 to 41; medium extras, 34 1/2 to 34 1/2; standards, 34 1/2 to 37; current receipts, 33 to 34 1/2; fates, 28 to 30; checks, 27 to 29 1/2.

CHICAGO POTATOES
Chicago, July 17 (AP)—(WFA)—Potatoes, arrivals 202, on track 233, total U. S. shipments, Saturday 450, Sunday 36; supplies moderate; demand slow; for California long whites market about steady on best stock; for Missouri stock market weaker; for red stock, demand good but practically nothing available in today's market; California long whites, U. S. No. 1, 1.15 to 1.40; composites, 1.50 to 1.90; Missouri cullers, fair to generally good quality, 4.16.

CHICAGO GRAIN
Chicago, July 17 (AP)—(WFA)—The grain trade eyed reports of favorable weather in the northwest and heavy week-end receipts of wheat at southwestern terminals, then began liquidating futures today with the result that prices closed sharply lower. Hedging pressure was on the wheat market throughout the session and the only sustaining influence resulted from heating orders for September wheat at $1.27 1/2.

Wheat closed 3-8 to 1 cent lower than Saturday's finish, July 15.74. Oats were off 3/4 to 1 1/2, July 17 3 1/2. Rye was off 2 1/2 to 3 1/4, July 11.05 to 5-8. Barley was 3-4 to 7-8 lower, July 11.26 1/4.

Rye had advanced in early trading, but was sharply when commission house offerings found there was little demand.

The oats market was influenced by the trend in other grains. Offerings of cash oats in the spot market were the largest in weeks and prices were off about half a cent.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK
Chicago, July 17 (AP)—(WFA)—Salable hogs 15, total 17,000; moderately active, steady to 10 higher than Friday and Saturday on weights 270 lbs. and down; weights over 270 lbs. about steady with Friday and Saturday; good and choice 180 to 270 lbs. 13.75 to 13.80, top 13.85 especially for choice 220 lbs.; good and choice 280 to 300 lbs. 12.25 to 12.35; 300 to 350 lbs. 12.50 to 12.55; few good and choice 150 to 170 lbs. 12.50 to 12.55; good and choice 350 to 550 lbs. 11.40 to 11.65; choice light weights to 11.75; good clearances; shippers took 2.00.

Outmoded table manners

THESE DAYS we can't follow our whims in stocking our pantries or filling our plates. For there's no longer a great abundance of needed things—and that's the reason for rationing. There's no other way of making sure that all get enough.

The same fair-to-all creed is back of the purchase-limits placed on IMPERIAL—with all distilleries producing war alcohol, the supply of base whiskey must last for a longer time than anyone had foreseen.

That is why you may be asked to limit your purchases of this famed "velveted" blend—to help make the supply last.

And we think you'll agree that some for all is fairer than all for some.

In spite of the whiskey shortage there has been no change in the official price of IMPERIAL except for new federal excise taxes

MEAT SURVEY NEARING END

Job Finished In Escanaba, Rapid River, Gladstone

The task of checking meat dealers in Escanaba, Gladstone and Rapid River has been completed, the local war price and rationing board has announced but a summary of the survey reports will not be made until the entire county has been canvassed.

Fourteen volunteer workers were utilized in Escanaba to check the prices and posting of signs of the meat dealers in this city. Personnel of the rationing board also assisted.

The work of completing the inspections in other meat markets of the county is expected to take several more days because of the lack of volunteer workers in those communities.

The local rationing board reported yesterday that a summary of the inspections will be announced, showing the degree of compliance with the OPA price regulations of the county meat dealers.

Although many local residents predict there will be a small blueberry crop, persons who really know say the harvest will be the largest in several years. These persons declare that in spite of lack of rain which will prevent quick ripening and frost of a couple weeks ago which killed many blossoms there will be abundant wild blueberry and blackberry crops.

News From Men In The Service

WITH THE 37TH ARMY DIVISION ON BOUGAINVILLE — "The observation post was beyond the front lines and we had to cross a gap-held territory to reach it," said Sergeant Peter J. Breclaw of Escanaba and Vulcan, Michigan. "The Japs held a well fortified pocket in our lines and to reach a point from which we could adjust our artillery fire, meant a trip through enemy ground."

"On the first day in action during the New Georgia Campaign, their shellfire destroyed part of our equipment when we took to foxholes. The artillery liaison party I was with, was in the front line continually. We were wakened every morning by sniper fire."

"Here on Bougainville when the Japs made their big try at taking the beachhead, we were under shell fire often and had a good part of our communications equipment ruined by the shrapnel. Shell splinters were strewn all over the top of our foxhole."

Sergeant Breclaw attended high school in Vulcan where his father, Albert Breclaw lives. In Escanaba, he worked for the city as a heavy equipment operator before induction in March 1941.

After basic training at Fort Sill, Oklahoma, Sergeant Breclaw joined the 37th Division in Camp Shelby, Mississippi and left the states in May 1942. He was stationed in New Zealand, Fiji and Guadalcanal before seeing combat.

His sister, Mrs. Walter Opolka, lives in Wells, Michigan just outside of Escanaba.

Cpl. Philip Charbonneau, who is stationed in the Aleutian Islands, writes his family and friends of the interest in softball in the Islands.

On the post there are seventeen teams competing in league play. The Ridgerunners, the team of which Cpl. Charbonneau is captain, has gone through an undefeated season and has therefore won the right to represent the entire post for the championship of the Aleutian Islands.

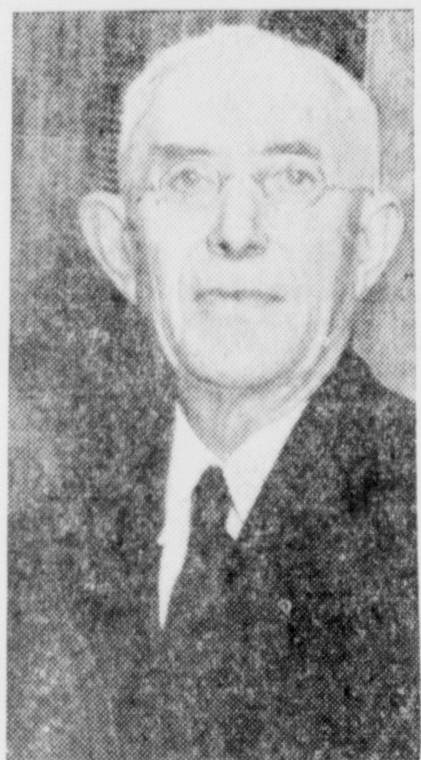

The Aleutian Island champs will then be pitted against the Alaskan champs and also a ten day Alaskan furlough.

Capt. Gerald F. Brown, M. C., son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Brown, Wells, has arrived somewhere in England, his parents have been advised. He is stationed with the 150th station hospital. He enlisted in the army in June, 1942 and received his commission as captain in the medical corps July 4 of that year. His wife, Dr. Bernice E. Brown, is a member of the staff at the University of Iowa hospital, Iowa City, Iowa.

F 2/C. Roy A. Gangstad has been transferred from Great Lakes Naval Training Station to Purdue University, LaFayette, Indiana, where he will have a four months course in electricity.

"Ambulance" comes from the French "ambulant," meaning to walk.

Hans Abrahamson Seriously Hurt In Fall Off Ladder

Hans Abrahamson, 79, sustained a fractured skull when he fell off a ladder at his home, 1019 First avenue north, yesterday morning. He was taken to St. Francis hospital, where he was reported in critical condition.

Mr. Abrahamson was painting his home when he slipped off the ladder and fell headlong on the

JOHNSON TALKS TO ROTARY CLUB

Childrens Aid Society
Official Describes State Program

Fred Johnson of Detroit, executive secretary of the Michigan Children's Aid Society, yesterday described to the Escanaba Rotary club the growing problems of children in wartime. Johnson is on a trip to the Upper Peninsula and spoke to the club at invitation of Atty. James Frost, club program chairman.

In 1942 there were about three million born in the United States, the highest per capita percentage of births since 1925, Johnson pointed out. In 1943, although figures are not yet available, estimates are the total births will go above three million for the nation.

Johnson said this meant a coming wave of pressure on the school system, and increasing factor in welfare and business futures. It also will mean, he said, that unless forward steps are taken the growing wartime percentage of delinquency may be expected to increase.

In 1943, according to the Children's Bureau report, the increase in delinquency showed a 31 per cent increase above the previous year.

The "why" of the juvenile delinquency problem in wartime was explained by Johnson as 1—a lack of understanding on the part of parents; 2—the neglect of children when the mother is employed outside the home; 3—a failure on the part of many school systems to report and use information which shows adverse tendencies and trends in the social behavior of youth.

"To meet these problems effectively we must give children greater thought and consideration now and in the future, for the child is our nation's greatest and most important business," Johnson declared.

More than 200 languages are spoken in India.

Kristina Anderson Of Bark River Is Claimed By Death

Mrs. Kristina Anderson, 78, respected resident of the Bark River community, passed away yesterday noon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Oscar Bolm, following an illness of several months.

Mrs. Anderson was born on January 18, 1866, in Varmland, Sweden. She came to America in 1893 and almost immediately to Bark River where she had resided constantly since.

Surviving are the daughter, Mrs. Bolm, a sister, Anna Anderson, living in Sweden, and three grandchildren.

Mrs. Anderson was a member of the Salem Lutheran church, Bark River. The body was removed to the Boyle funeral home at Bark River where it will rest in state from 3 o'clock this afternoon to 10 o'clock Wednesday morning. It will then be taken to the home of Mrs. Bolm.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Bolm home and at 2:30 o'clock at Salem Lutheran church in Bark River, the Rev. Emory Pokrant officiating. Burial will be made in the family plot in the Bark River cemetery.
